

Activities in Moodle Overview

Activities in Moodle allows you to create different learning objects for your students. It is important to vary the types of Resources and Activities for your students to increase student engagement and create a course that meets universal design standards.

When choosing an Activity, ensure it assists students in meeting the course learning outcomes set for them. You should also review your course to ensure the student has an opportunity to engage in meaningful interactions with fellow students, with you as their instructor, as well as with the course content. Best teaching practices in the classroom are mirrored in the online environment. It is still imperative that your students are connected.

When you open up Moodle, these are the options you have for Activities at present. Each of these will be reviewed.
